

SHORT BIO

Martina Flaherty is a singer songwriter, vocal teacher/tutor and sound healer from Loughrea, Co Galway, Ireland. She has explored across many genres, collaborations and projects over the last few years.

Her music combines influences of blues, soul and folk with soulful vocals , fueled by themes such as living with a higher purpose, love and becoming more self-compassionate. Through the power of music and voice her live performance invites inspiration and celebration to awaken and reconnect to the joy, wisdom, and love of our own souls.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Her latest single “ Falling into love” came in at number one in the iTunes singer songwriter charts on November 2nd 2022 and at number 33 in the Irish top 100.

She played Electric Picnic this year with her 6 piece band to a great reception.

She was winner of the “Allingham Song Contest ‘ ‘Ireland in 2018.

She came second in "The UK Song writing Contest" in 2009 with her song "Maybe"

She won 2nd place in the Jazz Category in "ISC International Songwriting competition" in 2011 and another song called “The Dream” got an honorary mention in the Performance category.

Herself and her 12 year old daughter Rhianna won RTE TG4 “ Feis and Blood” TV series in 2011 and were crowned Ireland’s most talented Families.